

Biography

Jon is an Advanced Practice Paramedic in Kentucky and holds Critical Care and Wilderness Paramedic certifications through IBSC and the National Registry. He serves as Division Chief and Paramedic Educator with Georgetown-Scott County EMS, where he leads the EMS Education Division overseeing EMT-Basic, AEMT, and continuing education programs. His work spans curriculum design, simulation-based education, instructor development, and emergency management — including Incident Management Team training and disaster response planning. He has presented at EMS conferences and brings a data-driven, adult learning-centered approach to workforce development in emergency medicine.

Clinically, Jon has experience in ground EMS, full-scope practice in the emergency departments, and critical care paramedicine in Kentucky's austere wilderness environments and technical rescue settings.
